Our Own Thanks-giving Celebration

Dear Little Readers--

The Breckenridge News wishes we could give to every one who wrote to the paper last week a book for each letter showed such a beautiful Thanksgiving spirit. As we promised to give the prize for the best letter, the judges have awarded it to Mary McGavock, Cloverport, Ky. Her letter was the best constructed. It was written with ink, worded well and was the neatest one received. Mary Owen Oelze wins second honor for excellent composition. The point that militated against her letter was its being written with a lead pencil. The prize is "The Little Colonel" by Annie Fellows Johnson. We will announce another contest next week and hope you will try your luck again.

Here's wishing you plenty of turkey and a pleasant Thanksgiving.

The Assistant Editor.

Prize Letter

Dear Breckenridge News:

I was most thankful this summer because I was living and well. I went to the country for work this summer and gathered wild flowers and berries, and hunted the eggs. We would go up to the mail box every evening to get the mail but would only get the weather forecast. I would go to the spring for my grandfather which was much fun. One evening my uncle wanted one to help him to plant beans so I helped him. When he had them planted he had to cover them up so I rode on the foot which was great fun.

One day a friend of mine and her uncle took me horse back riding. We went about five miles out on a country road to the Little Tar Springs. As we were coming home we stopped at the ice plant and got a watermelon and ate it then we started home. We got home about five o'clock in the evening. Lots of other funny things happened but these were the nicest. I am glad that I am here to write you this letter.

Your loving reader,
Mary McGavock.

May Win Next Time.

Dear Editor:—I am a little girl nine years old. I go to school every day. My teachers name is Miss Ellen Bodine. She came home with me Wednesday night to see my little sister who is recovering from the Malaria fever which I am most thankful for. My happiest day last year was one I spent at my Aunt's at Cloverport. Papa has been a subscriber to the Breckenridge News ever since I remember and Mama says she would not do without our News. I hope I will be the most successful in your contest for I like to read good books.

Your little friend,
Katherine McGovern.

Your little thankful boy,

For Health, Life And School.

Dear Editor:—I am thankful for my home, mother, father and little sister and I am thankful that God has let me live until I am 10 years old and he will let me live until I am a grown lady.

But I am the thankfullest of my health and life.

And the thing that has made me the happiest in the past year is my school and school teacher.

Grace Panley.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 20, 1908.

Real Happiness.

Dear Editor:—The happiest thing that has past this last year was that I was converted and became a Christian and that I gave children things that they did not have.

And I had a happy visit out to the Country to my uncles. I staid two days.

Your loving little friend,
Helen D. Miller.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 1908.

Smart For Ten Years.

Dear Editor:—I was ten years old the fourth day of last May. I have now entered my fourth year of school life. We have a good school and my father is the President. I am very fond of all my teachers. I have six studies including music and I enjoy them all, especially my music. I have no little playmate in my home, but have two big brothers who play with me and my out-of-door playmate is a fine scotch collie shepherd dog his name is Bob. I wish you could see him. I also have some nice little playmates in the community. We have a Juvenile Missionary Society, we hold our meetings on the first and third Sundays in the month. I am the president and my mother is the lady manager. We children arrange our programs and think them quite interesting. About a week ago we entertained the members of the Sunday School Cradle Roll and their mothers. There were seventeen mothers and twenty-five children under five years of age. I have enjoyed a few short trips this year but Gods presence has been more than anything else to me.

Most respectfully yours,
Mary A. Hughes.

At Grand-Ma's.

My Happiest time this year was going to grand-ma's it was three days till Thanksgiving.

Me and my brother Frank went to grand-ma's.

The evening before Thanksgiving grand father said I will go get the turkey to have for dinner tomorrow. I was aming to go with him.

But I went before he did. I went up to the old turkey he did not move so I thought that I would catch him. But as soon as I touched him he gave a terrible gobble and started at me. I flew for the fence and I was not a bit too soon. As for grandpa he had to catch the turkey himself.

But I was thankful I had got to the fence in time.

If I had not the turkey would have had me for his dinner instead of me having him for my dinner.

From A Sweet Little Girl.

Dear Editor:—November 26th brings to us again our annual Thanksgiving day. I am proud to know that we live in a nation whose chief executive recognized the God of heaven as the giver of every good and perfect gift; manifesting this by appointing a day that we may all express the gratitude of our hearts for another year of blessings. I am truly grateful for his goodness that has been given me and so many dear friends. My dear father who is trying to guide my feet in paths of right usefulness.

For the church with its Heaven appointed instructions; teaching me to recognize the good, pure in all and in all things as coming from His boundless hand.

And again I am thankful for the beautiful bird, the turkey, that father carves every Thanksgiving, that we enjoy so very much with cranberries and celery. Wishing you a merry Thanksgiving.

I am,
Louise Fisher Lewis.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 18, 1908.

Thankful For Pleasures.

Dear Editor:—My mother, Mrs. McMullan subscribes for the Breckenridge News and I saw the little add in the paper to boys and girls under fifteen.

I am a girl fourteen years old. I am in the seventh grade. Mrs. Anderson is my teachers name. I like her fine.

I certainly do like for Thanksgiving to come because we always get out of school and have a good time.

This is my second Thanksgiving in Oklahoma. Last Thanksgiving we went a nice dinner to an old gentleman that was sick and he has been kind to us ever since.

I think we should all be thankful for the pleasures and comfort of life He has given us and I think there is nothing nicer than to send someone that you know will not have a turkey and lots of nice things for their Thanksgiving dinner some of yours.

I expect you are acquainted with my mother her maiden name was Miss Ermine Munford.

I certainly hope that I will have a chance to do a kind act for someone this year.

I remain Respt,
Frances McMullan.
Blackwell, Okla. Nov. 13, 1908.

A Visit The Happiest.

Dear Editor:—In the past year a visit made me happiest. It was a trip to grandpa's. We were all to go in a big wagon filled with sweet scented hay. We were going to start at midnight so that the drive could be in the cool night and early morning of the next day. It was late in the night when I woke. Mama and papa was already out of their beds and were out in the yard. I could hear them talking. Papa said it was cloudy and we would not go. I held my breath and waited. At last I heard mama calling the other children. I sprang out of bed and was dressing when mama came into my room for I knew we were going. In a little while we were all ready and the wagon was brought to the gate and we all got in. I shall never forget that ride under the calm, deep blue July sky with the stars twinkling and sending forth rays of silver light. We reached grandpa's at eight o'clock that morning and spent a few happy days then returned home safe and well.

Not A Licking Yet.

Dear Editor:—Thanksgiving is a day for us to give thanks for the blessings we have received and for the bad things that have not happened to us. I am thankful for good health, for good warm clothes to wear, for plenty to eat and a good warm place to sleep. I am thankful for all the good things I have. For the good school and Sunday school I attend and last of all I have not got a licking yet at school and that I am not a big fat turkey gobbler.

Your friend,
Forrest Dryden Weatherholt.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 17, 1908.

Thanks Twice.

Dear Editor:—Having seen in the News that you wanted all of the boys and girls who read your paper to write you a Thanksgiving letter, I thought I would write.

I am a little girl thirteen years of age. My sister takes the News and we think we could not get along without it. I go to school and am in the fifth grade. My teacher is Miss Cora Matthews.

At first I thought I did not have much to be thankful for, but when I think of the golden harvest, the russet fruit and life and health, I am truly thankful for all of these blessings. I am also thankful for the kind words and smiles of an affectionate and sympathetic mother. Wishing you all a big fat turkey and a rich pumpkin pie for your Thanksgiving dinner.

I am your little friend and reader,
Nellie Beatty.

Got A Gold Pin.

Dear Editor:—I will write you what happened to me. I was Thanksgiving in 1907 and Thanksgiving 1908.

Thanksgiving 1907 I had went to Sunday school just about three months and I have went a year and got a gold pin for not missing a day at Sunday school and after I got my pin I never quit like some of the other children and I haven't missed a Sunday service.

I went to the fair and saw a few of my friends then I saw some fine stock of all kinds and there was a cow which weighed twenty four hundred and fifty and I saw two race ones was a mule race and the other was a trotten race.

One man on a mule got throwed but didn't hurt him. Ten I went to a show and seen where Harrie Thaght shot Sanford White.

Affectionately yours,
J. E. Miller.

Loves His School.

Dear Editor:—I will write you a letter to tell you about my school, the school house is on the top of a large hill and we can see the boats and trains passing from the windows. I love to go to school for I do my teachers. They are so good and kind to me. I like to play with the other children. We have such a good time at recess playing ball and spinning tops and when the snow is on the ground play snow ball and coast down the hill. I am in the second grade. At school I study my lessons so I will not have to stay in at recess and miss getting to play. I love to go to school. I am sorry when Saturday comes. Hoping you will visit again soon. I am your little friend.

Interesting Letter.

Dear Editor:—I wish to join your contest in writing Thanksgiving letters. And also wish to win one of your great prizes which you offer to the little ones.

Thanksgiving is a great day and was set apart by the Pilgrims. A number of Pilgrims emigrated to Holland. They were very religious and desired to worship God according to dictates of their own consciences. They did not feel at home in Holland. They longed for a country which they might call their own and determined to sail for the new world.

One hundred and two of them embarked on the Mayflower and came to the new world and made their settlement. There was a little brook that ran by their settlement and the birds would come and drink and sing to them every day and it made them so happy.

Well I will make my letter short as I can't think of any more.

I remain your little friend,
Virgil Oliver Bowlds.

To Auntie In Phila

Dear Aunt Bessie:—Another Thanksgiving Day is almost here and yet it seems a very long while since one year ago, when I wrote that last Thanksgiving letter to you.

Aunt Bessie I wish you were here to spend Thanksgiving with us, be thankful with us, eat turkey, cranberries, celery pumpkin pies and all those good things a Thanksgiving dinner brings. I have so many things to be thankful for too. I have been sick but I think I will be well enough to go to school in a few days.

I shall be very thankful for that, for I love my teacher, my school and my little playmates very much.

Aunt Bessie I am sure Thanksgiving Day is just the same in Philadelphia as it is in Cloverport, even though it is very far away, but I believe you could have just as good a time here and be just as thankful, and if you would only come I would be even more thankful than I am.

Write to me soon and try to tell me you will come to see us.

Very much love from your little girl,
Agnes Mattingly.
Cloverport, Ky. Nov. 17, 1908.

RURAL ROADMAKING.

How Some Farmers Built a Good Highway Cheaply.

STONES FROM FIELDS USED.

Nothing Paid For Material—No Large Profit For a Contractor—Only Cost of the Road Was the Cost of Home Labor.

One fact people are slow to learn is that the soil satured made for growing plants in does not make a good road. Soil is decomposed or pulverized rock with some humus or vegetable matter. When this is wet it is mud; when very dry it is dust.

When soil is used for a road the most of the time it is in either one of these two conditions, but there are short periods when there is just the amount of moisture in the soil that makes it so compact as to be a firm road. For many years rural roadmaking has been some process of getting more soil into the road by the supervision of the "path master" we used to work out the road tax by throwing soil in the road with a team and scraper and afterward throwing the stones from the roadbed into the ditch. The next year, after the soil had been so compacted by the same soil was scraped into the center of the road again and the same stones thrown out. The last few years this work has been done cheaply and easily with the road worker. This plan of roadmaking may give a fairly good country road, where heavy loads are seldom drawn, for two or three months in summer, but for the greater part of the year there is no firm, smooth roadbed, but mud, ruts and dust, says W. H. Jenkins of Sidney Center, N. Y., in Hoar's Dictionary. For the same reason that we need better school houses and rural schools we need better country roads. Instituting stone maintained roads in agricultural localities is a most wise and far-reaching policy, for it hastens the time of better agriculture and civilization and the problem of good roads for the farmer. Man always finds nature has anticipated his needs and is only waiting for him to work up to a point where he must learn to make his roads from the rock before the glacier has ground them into soil, not afterward. For many years in many sections the early cultivators have not known how to get rid of the stones on their fields or what use to make of overtopping ledges of rock that could be quarried. Now the modern machinery for making macadamized roads and the need of them and learning the uses of concrete will make these among the most valuable assets on the farm. As I am able to see it, the building of state roads by state funds does not best solve the problem of good roads for the farmer, but by the farmers co-operating with the state.

The local interest and effort are needed. The road is a better road at less cost. In many sections farmers are complaining about poor state roads. In one road district in New York two miles of macadamized road were built at a cost of $13,000 per mile. One half of this amount was subscribed by the people living in the road district, and the state paid the other half. This road was built under the supervision of the town road commissioner, and the steam road crusher and other machinery used by the town were used. No large profit was paid to a contractor. Nothing was paid for material. The only cost of the road was the cost of labor. I would call attention to the fact that the process of scientific road building as it was done in this instance is the reverse of that so long practiced by farmers. The soil they try to keep in the road is first all removed down to the bedrock or gravel, and when the grading is done the understratum of the roadbed is made of the coarsest material, one or two feet thick. Next quarry stone or refuse from the quarry is broken to make a layer several inches thick, then another layer of material, and so on, crushed stone from the stone crusher and rolled with the steam roller.

I drove over this two years from the time it was built, and can say it was in better condition than some state roads I have seen built at the same time. I have been pains to talk with people living on this road and find them entirely satisfied with their investment and planning to build more of this road. I think on one mile of this road four farmers live on the average. The road cost them $200 per mile, or about $100 each. The interest on the investment is less than $10, and I think all can see that no farmer can make a better investment. Here they have a road bed that will last for many years, and the yearly road tax will keep it in repair. Farms have been cleaned of stone provided material, work was provided for home labor, a road has been made in the right way, according to the principles of good road building, and the benefits that follow are beyond estimation.

CARNEGIE WOULD CUT TARIFF

Claims 'Infant Industries' No Longer Need Protection.

Says Steel and Oil Duties Should Be Abolished, and Urges Tariff for Revenue and an Increase in Taxes on Important Articles Consumed by the Rich.

Andrew Carnegie, who built up the steel trust and amassed a huge fortune under protective tariff, claims that there is no longer any need of protecting our one-time "infant industries" which have now grown to lusty maturity; that duties on manufactured articles ought to be greatly reduced, protective duties of steel and oil together abolished and "duties for revenue" increased on imported luxuries consumed by the rich.

These amazing statements from a man supposed to be a "died-in-the-wool" protectionist, Mr. Carnegie makes in his article, "My Experience with and Views Upon the Tariff," which will appear in the December issue of the Century Magazine, to be published November 25, in which, after sketching the development of American protection and relating inside stories of tariff legislation in Congress, he arranges the facts and arguments which convince him that the day of tariff for protection in America is gone, and that, in general, such duties should be greatly decreased, abolished in many cases, and duties increased on important luxuries.

In spite of this radical standpoint Mr. Carnegie maintains he is still as much as a protectionist (where protection is really needed) as he ever was and that he has not changed one iota since he has formed a clear and definite view in regard to protection. He further states that President McKinley was of "our school of protectionists," "strong for protection where needed," "but equally strong in abolishing unnecessary duties." Pointing out that the McKinley bill, generally considered highly protective, really reduced duties on steel rails, beams, structural shapes, nails, forgings, etc., Mr. Carnegie goes on to narrate the part he himself played in making out lists reducing iron and steel duties in connection with the Wilson and other tariff reform bills, and shows how two distinguished Democratic leaders, Senators Gorman and Gov. Flower, helped to defeat the "revolutionary features" of the Wilson bill and yet obtained a thorough and judicious reform, reducing duties on iron and steel one-third.

Regarding the present status of the steel industry, the master of Skibo castle says, "the writer has co-operated in making the several reductions as steel manufacturers became able to bear reduction. Today they need no protection, unless perhaps in some new specialties unknown to the writer, because steel is now produced cheaper here than anywhere else notwithstanding the higher wages paid per man. Not a ton of steel is produced in the world at as small an outlay for labor as in our own country," and from his experience as a steel maker, he arranges facts and conditions that explain the paradox of "high wages" and "lower cost for labor."

He is as positive on oil as on steel, and concludes his apparently enthusiastic discussion of the protective and retaliatory oil duty with the statement, "The oil producers, like the steel producers, of our country need no protection from the products of other lands."

"My Experience with, and Views Upon the Tariff" most earnestly champions tariff for revenue and from Mr. Carnegie's statements and indorsement of this we quote:

"In conclusion, tariff for protection, which was the issue forty years ago, should now give place to a tariff for revenue, and therefore the strict maintenance of the present duties upon foreign luxuries, paid by the rich * * *

"In the writer's opinion, the revision of the tariff could to-day safely and advantageously be made a radical one upon the lines suggested, but if Congress, in deference to the timid manufacturer 'whom we always have with us,' thinks it prudent not to disturb his dreams unduly and only halves the present duties upon some articles and abolishes them entirely upon others, always provided it guards zealously the present duties on luxuries of the rich for revenues, the writer will be thankful and philosophical as usual, because one step in right direction will have been taken, and he knows the final step must come before long—the sooner the better."

Characteristically enough, Mr. Carnegie closes his article with a laurel wreath for the "white bird of peace" which is more or less his exclusive property—"for nothing can keep the republic from speedily dwarfing all other nations industriously if she only continues to tread the paths of peace, following the truly American policy of the fathers."

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Cloverport Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Cloverport proof.

William Johnson, Cloverport, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills in my case proved to be a very reliable remedy and I have no hesitancy in recommending them. For six years my kidneys troubled me. The secretions were so lame and frequent in action and when allowed to stand contained a sediment. I was forced to rise several times during the night and as a result, my rest was greatly disturbed. My back ached severely, particularly at night and in the morning I would be so lame and sore that I could scarcely get around. Whenever I contracted the slightest cold, it settled in my kidneys and made my suffering more intense. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Fisher's drug store have given me great relief from these troubles and I can give them my endorsement, knowing them to be a very reliable remedy."

Suddenly there was a resurgent yell from the enemy. Instinctively Bansemir knew that one side of the square had given way. Quickly turning, he caught the arm of a native about to slash him with a huge knife. With the two gripped hands high in the air Bansemir was able to turn and he became separated a bit from the rest of the chaotic mass of friend and foe, swaying out to one side of the plaza and under the wall of the temple. Bansemir was facing it, and just at the moment that he felt his strength giving way and could see a grin of triumph on the face of the enemy he saw a report, and his ad-

"Yes."
 "Then why did you try to kill me?"
 "I hate you both! We Spaniards, have we not as much to fear from you? What difference does color make in hatred?"

Instantly every man made for the position assigned to him. The gun was in readiness. Outside the Mausers rattled, bullets coming from all quarters and thumping sharply against the opposite walls with a patter that warned the Americans against standing erect. Occasionally a scout would peep from a window and take a shot into the darkness, but these ventures were few.

STREPHENSPORT is not a dead town by any means, but one of the liveliest of its size in the State. There are more goods sold there and more money deposited in its bank of any other town of like size in the State. Judge Adair, cashier of the Two States Bank, says the business of his bank has been extremely satisfactory, more than he could have asked for, taking the state of the times into consideration. A visit to this good town will convince any one of the facts as stated.

The News takes great pleasure this week in publishing the Thanksgiving letters set forth on the front page. They appear just as they were written without corrections. The letters are indeed interesting and we urge you to read them. Note the originality, the spirituality and uniqueness of them. They also show that the simple things of life can make a child happy, not automobiles and gold rings and diamonds are essential to their happiness. God bless them, and may their little hearts grow and gain with joyfulness and thanksgiving.

At San Antonio, Tex., Tuesday, where Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan stopped on their way to Mexico for a vacation, the defeated democratic candidate said to a group of friends that he hoped it would never become necessary to run for office again, but that he would not attempt to decide that question until the time comes to act. In reply to the direct question whether he would run for the presidency again, he said he was not discouraged as to the future of the Democratic party. That party was already a great educational force, and he had no doubt that the voters would yet turn to it for the accomplishment of necessary reforms. Mr. Bryan blames Tammany for the New York slump.

OUR THANKS AND WISHES.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day! And the News is glad for never before in the existence of the paper have we had more for which to be thankful. Pulling through the panic victoriously, launching successfully the cash in advance subscription plan have meant a great deal to the News and among the many blessings, we are especially thankful for these two. But most of all do we give thanks for the keen interest that has sprung up in the Breckenridge News during the last year. We have never known our subscribers to watch for the paper with such eagerness as they do now from week to week.

May you all have the Thanksgiving spirit. There is not anything that adds more to one's happiness than to be thankful, to be able to appreciate the good things of life. And too, may you all have plenty turkey and cranberries and pumpkin pie, however, in our estimation these are the least that go to make up the happy November day—Thankfulness and gratefulness are the greatest; may your hearts and dishes be filled with them.

LIBERTY OF CONSCIENCE.

To discriminate against a thoroughly upright citizen because he belongs to some particular church, or because, like Abraham Lincoln, he has not avowed his allegiance to any church, is an outrage against that liberty of conscience which is one of the foundations of American liberty. You are entitled to know whether a man seeking your suffrages is a man of clean and upright life, honorable in all his dealings with his fellows, and fit by qualification and purpose to do well in the office for which he is a candidate; but you are not entitled to know matters which lie purely between himself and his Maker. If it is proper or legitimate to oppose a man for being a Unitarian, as was John Quincy Adams, for instance; as a Rev. Edward Everett Hale, at the present moment chaplain of the Senate, and an American of whose life all good Americans are proud—then it would be equally proper to support or oppose a man because of his views on justification by faith, or the method of administering the sacrament, or the Gospel of salvation by works. If you once enter upon such a career there is absolutely no limit at which you can legitimately stop.—From President Roosevelt's letter on Taft's religious faith.

The Louisville Market.

Total sales in this market last week were 698 hhd., against 1,356 hhd., sold in corresponding week of last year. Total receipts last week were 364 hhd., against 791 hhd., received on corresponding week of last year. Rejections last week were 99 hhd., 15 per cent of the auction sales, against 24 per cent. for the preceding week. Of the total sales 656 hhd. were Burley and 189 were Dark tobacco.

Four hogheads constituted the total auction sales on Tuesday. On Wednesday 15 hhd., new Burley, 28 hhd., old Burley and 48 hhd., dark tobacco were offered, making a total offering for the day of 408 hhd. On Thursday the breaks contained 350 hhd. Burley and 45 hhd. dark.

These increased offerings indicate the effect of last week's rain, light as it was, brought some tobacco into stripping and pricing condition.

A new high record for 1908 crop was made Wednesday when the Pickett House sold a hoghead of Hart county new crop at $21.50, $22.50 and $23.

The general tone of the Burley market this week has been broader and stronger. All buyers agreed that both the old and new leaf and lugs were harder to buy this week than they have been for some time.

The colory kinds of the 1908 crop are especially high and strong. In fact, it is generally conceded that considering the amount of crop yet in the new crop it is selling relatively higher than the old tobacco.

The market for dark tobacco was fairly steady, but without much activity, the offerings being too small to attract general attention.

As this report goes to press we learn that negotiations are still pending between the officers of the Burley Society and the American Tobacco Company, but decision has yet been arrived at, though it may be concluded before this reaches our readers.

LATER.—On Thursday night, just before midnight, the deal was concluded. We understand it includes a sale to the American Tobacco Company of 10,000, 000 lbs. of 1908 crop at $41.00 per hundred and 60,000,000 lbs. 1907 crop at $17.00 per hundred, making the total sale aggregate over twelve million dollars.—Farmers Home Journal.

A CORRECTION.

In printing a list of the indictments returned at the October court, the name of Leo Hinton appeared among the list as one who had been guilty of violating the Local Option Law. The News printed the indictments just as they appear on the records at Hardinsburg, but the Clerk explained that it was an error made by some one, by putting Mr. Hinton's name on the indictment, when it should have been against Jim Ray. Mr. Hinton is only a witness in the case, and he is not indicted for violating the Local Option Law. The News makes this correction for Mr. Hinton, as it was not our desire to put him in a false position before the public.

White-Haired Women.

The New York women are original in their fashion of dressing, particularly the older women. The whiter the hair of a New York woman, the more she runs to color in her clothing. One New York woman with white hair with golden lights in it wears light blue invariably summer and winter, dainty blues with blue and white hats. Another wears purple bonnets, violet bonnets, very pretty on her white hair, and gloves of delicate lavender. And they are not unbecomingly, either, these white-haired women. Many of them are beautiful. A white hair with blue wings, a white veil with little dots, a pink and white complexion—many of them have really wonderful complexions—and at a distance they have the look of dainty bits of Dresden. —New York Press.

Birthday Celebration.

Victoria, Ky., Nov. 17.—Special—Mr. John T. McGovern and wife entertained a few of their friends today at dinner—the occasion being the forty-eighth anniversary of Mr. McGovern's birth.

Notably among the guests present were Mr. Samuel Muffett, aged 70, Mrs. Bridget McGovern, 76, and Mrs. Nancy E. Pate, 81, who are old only in years. They enjoyed the day and contrived largely to the happiness of others. Mr. Muffett being the leader of outdoor sports which the fine day made possible. Among those present besides the above mentioned were Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, Mrs. Nina Mason, Mrs. Nannie Mason, Mrs. Nellie Mason, Misses Kate McGovern, Minnie Bates, Lillie Bates, Lillie Shores, Squire T. M. Bates and wife, Master Jesse Bates, Wm. McGovern, Eli Jackson and Mike Friel.

The guests arrived early in the forenoon and all were pleasantly entertained by lively conversation and outdoor games which made time pass pleasantly until dinner was announced, when all assembled in the large dining room where the table was loaded with good things to eat. I shall not try to give a description of the dinner as I could not do it justice, but will say that it was first class and was heartily enjoyed by all present.

John McGovern is a man whose heart is in the right place, and is never so happy as when he has a house full of friends to help him enjoy the good cheer which he abundantly provides.

Here is hoping that he may live to see the 17th of November many more times.

THE PARACHUTE.

Leonardo da Vinci Was the First One to Suggest It.

Credible accounts exist of an English Benedictine monk, Oliver of Malmesbury, in the eleventh century having tried to fly by precipitating himself from the height of a tower with the assistance of wings attached to his arms and his feet. It is said that having gone along a little way, he fell and broke his legs. He attributed his accident to failure to provide his apparatus with a tail, which would have helped preserve his equilibrium and made his descent a gentler one.

In the sixteenth century Leonardo da Vinci first demonstrated that a bird, which is heavier than the air, sustains its flight in the air, by reasoning the fluid denser where it passes than where it does not pass. In order to fly it has to fix its point of support on the air. Its wings in the descending stroke exert a pressure from above down, the reaction of which from below up forces the center of gravity of its body to ascend at each instant to the height at which the bird wishes to maintain it. Some sketches which have come down to us prove that Leonardo occupied himself, like Oliver of Malmesbury, with giving man the power of flying by the assistance of wings suitably fixed to the body.

We owe to Leonardo also the invention of the parachute, which he described in the following terms: "If a man had a pavilion each side of which was fifteen bristles wide and twelve bristles high he might cast himself from any height whatever without fear of danger." It may be said, too, of Leonardo da Vinci that he was the first to suggest the idea of the screw propeller.

A SAUCY DUCHESS.

Her Audacious Fight For Gay and His "Beggars' Opera."

When the "Beggars' Opera," by Gay, was produced in 1728 it took positively by storm. The king still clung to Handel, but the nobility, with the Duchess of Queensberry among them, flocked rapturously to the "Newgate pastoral." The "Beggars' Opera" had a run of sixty-two nights, unprecedented in those days, and as one result of its success Handel became bankrupt. Suddenly there came an order from the lord chancellor to stop the new piece. Why, it was exactly known to be because the prime minister considered himself to be too faithfully represented therein. However that may have been, the theater had to be closed, and the Duchess of Queensberry took up Gay's cause and vehemently championed it.

Very busy was she in those days, doted about in her coach, asking for guinea subscriptions for printing copies of the forbidden play. And so heedless was Kitty that she carried her list to the queen's private room, and had the audacity to ask the king for a subscription. This was a little too much, and her grace was requested to withdraw from the court. Kitty, on receiving the command, was very agreeable to her, as she had never gone there for her own diversion, but to bestow civility upon the king and queen.

Papua Island. Papua Island was so named by the Malays, and the word means "rising." In reference to the hair of the inhabitants. It is generally supposed that Papua or New Guinea was originally part of the mainland of Australia. It was discovered by the Portuguese in 1526, though it was probably sighted by A. Dabren during his voyage fifteen years earlier. The Australian government, realizing the danger that would arise if an enemy sealed land so near their coasts, frequently urged England to annex the eastern portion of the island, and after two or three unauthorized annexations a British protectorate was established there in 1884.

Clipping Their Wings. The costume of the Pu Yuan Pen-Jen women in the Shan states is very striking, consisting of a cloth hood, an open jacket and a pair of short white trousers reaching barely to the knee. But the most important though the least noticeable part of their costume is their colored cloth garters. These women are obliged to wear, as without them it is believed they would be able to fly away, leaving their husbands and sweethearts sorrowful.

CHIPPENDALE CHAIRS

Examples of This Artist in a Number of Types.

THE CHINESE INFLUENCE.

Chippendale is thought by many experts to be at his best in the simple but distinct pattern—Modern Furniture.

The uninitiated in the ways of old furniture are apt to think of the chairs made by Chippendale as being of one type. As a matter of fact, Chippendale chairs are of a number of styles. There are the clawfoot models, beloved of our colonial ancestors and many of their descendants; the cabriole leg design and a more ornate affair boasting a back elaborated with ribbon-like splats. This last chair is not in the master's best style. The Chinese tend-under the guidance of the machinist's hand. They are neatly all manipulated partly by hand, and even the least costly bit of carved furniture receives a great deal more "hand" work is ordinarily superior. After being roughly shaped by machine all the carved furniture is finished by hand. At the rows of benches one sees old men and boys side by side, working away with chisels and saws and tiny polished tools at soft heads and chair arms, which are very much nearer real art than many an ambitious student gets with brush and paint.

"Adaptation" is the keynote of the designer for the American trade. Americans do not want utility sacrificed to grace and to "fingerboard" ornamentation.

ency did not creep in until rather late in the career of the great Thomas Chippendale. He was somewhat famous as early as 1735, though not until 1753 did he remove from a bystreet off Long Acre to St. Martin's lane.

He died in 1796, as you no doubt know. The Chippendale chairs, above all, were famous. Few of his other pieces attained the instant approval usually given his chairs by the greatest experts. Naturally his most elaborate efforts were his least artistic.

One of the most interesting features of these chairs is that not only examples of his Gothic, French, Dutch and Chinese manners exist, but also models in which the different styles are blended.

His devotion to the Chinese style dates from 1757. One example combines the Franco-Dutch top rail with the Chinese lattice back. Some consider the side chair with this back quite as typical. The lattice back was also made in Gothic form.

The ribbon back Chippendale has a fussy back, of which the great Thomas did not approve.

He made a stuffed chair in the French type, which is now said to be exceedingly rare in the original state. One of the Gothic styles with a splat back has a hollowed out seat.

Chippendale is thought by many experts to be at his best in the simple distinct pattern, with the gadroon edging to the seat rail.

It is interesting to know that designs for modern furniture made from the old models are all first drawn and then executed in plaster. Blocks of wood similar to this cast in shape are then cut and put into the hands of skilled workmen at machines. The machines, some of them, even resemble the human form, the workmen being able to see the work as it is done.

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lena V. Henry, of Norristown, Ga., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I suffered under misery from female troubles. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death."

"One day I read how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I decided to try it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was better, and now I am entirely cured."

"Every woman suffering with any female trouble should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to address thousands to health. Write, Lynn, Mass.

Advice Of Noted Authority, Also Gives A Simple Prescription.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

There is nothing that a man can think of that will do more to help the people than good roads, which make it easy to travel, easy to bring goods home, easy to haul your produce and manufactures to market, easy to go to school and church and easy to avoid many bitter thoughts that bad roads cause."

Island Out For Fine Roads. Highway improvement is becoming a live issue in Ireland. It is claimed that with good roads more than 40,000 acres of land could be made profitable for agricultural purposes and that such roads would lead to the development of the rich veins of gold which are known to exist near Reykjavik, the chief seaport.

Watched Fifteen Years. "For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklin's Kidney & Bladder Pills, and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved us many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy, of East Wilton, Maine, 25c. at Severs drug store.

Effect of Good and Bad Roads. In issuing a call for a state good roads meeting that was held at Louisville on Sept. 17 Governor Augustus E. Wilson of Kentucky said:

"There is nothing which hurts the people more or costs the people more or keeps them back more than bad roads. These make it hard to leave home, hard to get back, hard to haul, hard to visit, hard to get to heaven sometimes. There is nothing that a man can think of that will do more to help the people than good roads, which make it easy to travel, easy to bring goods home, easy to haul your produce and manufactures to market, easy to go to school and church and easy to avoid many bitter thoughts that bad roads cause."

A Quick Dessert. Sometimes one is called upon to make a dessert in a hurry, and for this open a can of apricots, peaches, berries or any fruit at hand. Put on to heat and in the meantime mix one pint of prepared flour with one beaten egg and one scant cupful of milk. Drop this like dumplings in a stew over the fruit, cover closely and steam from ten to fifteen minutes. Watch the fruit closely, as there is danger of its burning while the dumplings are cooking. Serve the dumplings and fruit together with sugar and cream or with a hard sauce.

TOBACCO SOLD IN BURLEY DISTRICT

American Tobacco Company Will Take Over 80,000,000 Pounds of Weed.

20-1-2 CENTS FOR 1906 CROPS.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 19.—The big deal between the American Tobacco company and the Burley Tobacco Society for the 1906 and a part of the 1907 crops of tobacco, which has been hanging fire several weeks, was closed here late today. The price agreed on in the transaction, the largest of its kind ever put through, is an average of 20 1/2 cents for the 1906 crop and 17 cents per pound for the 1907 product.

The deal involves nearly 80,000,000 pounds of tobacco held in pool by the Burley Tobacco society and the outlay something like $14,000,000 on the part of the American Tobacco company, practically all of this money being placed in circulation at once in Central Kentucky.

The Tobacco sold includes the larger part of the Burley growers association which was formed several years ago and which pooled its crops in 1906 and 1907. There was no crop raised by the members of the association in 1908, though a number of independents raised large crops in Central Kentucky under guard.

According to many who are in a position to know, the sale of the pooled crop will mark an end to night riding in Central Kentucky for the present at least, for it is believed with these crops out of the way, all growers will raise tobacco next year.

The sale has nothing to do with the crops in the dark district or in the Western portion of Kentucky and Northern Tennessee.

Free trade England is alarmed again at the physical deterioration of her "summer classes." In this land of protection the rule of social progress is that of emotional and physical, mental and moral development.

Public ownership of the railroads would add $1,000,000,000 to the public debt, but William Jennings Bryan doesn't worry about a little thing like that.

Republican voters will make the "peerless one" without a peer in the number of his defeats.

Bryan has discovered the proper ratio between paralysis and prosperity. It is himself.

We have passed the fifty milestone in our existence. During that time we have grown from a small beginning to a large and prosperous business. We have endeavored to keep abreast of the times, providing for our depositors every safe guard known to their protection and security. Our funds are guarded by a modern burglary and fire-proof safe, and insurance is carried to cover losses by either burglary or robbery. We pay 4 per cent. interest on time deposits, which is more than any other bank in this county pays.

We believe in paying our patrons all we can for the use of their money. The late disastrous bank failures have demonstrated that it is not the oldest and largest bank that is the safest. We take this opportunity to thank our customers whose patronage has helped to make this the largest and best institution in our five years of business. Respectfully,

JNO. S. ADAIR, Cashier.

IS IT THE RACE VS. ALCOHOL?

STRONG WORDS OF DR. PETERSON AS TO ALCOHOLS' EFFECTS.

If Alcohol's a Food It's a Poisoned Food—Are They Paid or Perverse, Even When College Professors? Address to Charities Conference.

From The New York Sun:

ELMYRA, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Dr. Frederick Peterson, of New York city, whose authority on diseases affecting the nervous system is widely recognized, delivered an important address here this evening before the ninth New York State Conference of Charities and Correction on the topic "The Influence of Alcohol Upon the Public Health." Dr. Peterson, who is professor of psychiatry at Columbia University, said that the most important modern campaign of education was to teach the people in regard to the abuse of alcohol. His larger idea carried the instruction beyond the well being of the individual and had to do with the development and improvement of the race.

Dr. Peterson in his category of the users of alcohol made a distinction which will sharpen some eyes when he differentiated the moderate drinker from the temperate drinker. He also said things to cause the people to sit up and take notice in speaking of the men, college professors or others, who publicly advocate alcohol as a food. Of these he said his hearers might be sure "it is the voice of some one perversely interested."

He went further and said that they might question whether such a man was not simply seeking self-exploitation, or "might not even be subsidized by the vast commercial interests at stake."

For himself Dr. Peterson said that if alcohol was a food it was a poisoned food. Harking to Maeterlinck's reflection that if the world would give up meat and alcohol there would be no more hungry folk Dr. Peterson said that if the $938,000,000 invested in the food industry can supply the greater part of this nation's food the $534,000,000 invested in the industry of poisonous drinks might well feed all the hungry, and leave a pretty sum over.

Mr. Peterson's address in part was as follows:

The mysterious power which has led mankind through all these ages from the protozoan up to man, through combat and struggle with the elements, with the natural enemies, with disease, seems always to give us at the proper moment, when it is most needed, the means of rescue, the power of triumph. So in these later years when physical structure has been safeguarded and more or less perfected, and there is need of speedier spiritual growth and development, that same power sows in a million minds the seeds from which spring freedom, social reform, moral uplifting, greater knowledge of the uses of the matter and forces all about us, and warnings of whatever may endanger the progress of the human race. Thus it must be that practically at the same moment all over the world, in Great Britain, Scandinavia, Germany, France, Italy, the United States, there has arisen a wave of feeling against the misuse of alcohol.

Insanity and epilepsy are among the diseases that taint our progeny. Alcohol is the chief poison that has this baneful power. As an example of what one individual may do I might cite the oft quoted Jukes family in the State of New York. One hard drinker was the originator of this family which over a generation ago, when Dugdale wrote his book, had become already 1,200 in number. In his summary of the study of the Jukes family of degenerates the author says:

WHAT ONE FAMILY OF ALCOHOLICS COST.

"Over a million and a quarter of dollars of loss in seventy-five years, caused by a single family 1,200 strong, without reckoning the cash paid for whiskey, or taking into account the entailment of pauperism and crime of the survivors in succeeding generations, and the incurable disease of idiocy insanity growing out of this debauchery, and reaching further than we can calculate."

This is one family. In the State of New York there are now some 10,000 insane in the public and private hospitals, and it is estimated that 20 per cent. of these, or 6,000 patients, owe their insanity to alcohol. In all the asylums of the United States are 150,000 insane, and assuming the same percentage here are 30,000 individuals in this country in whom alcohol has brought about insanity. Dr. MacDonald calculates that one insane person is an approximate loss to the State of $400 per year. Hence the actual loss in money to the State of New York through alcohol insanity is 2,400,000 and to the United States $13,000,000 every year.

Alcohol is often a direct cause of epilepsy, but more often epilepsy is due to alcoholism in parents. Thus Bourville, in a study of over 2,500 idiots, epileptics and imbeciles admitted to the Bicetre Hospital found that over 41 per cent. of them had drunken parents. In the report for the Craig Colony for Epileptics it was found that over 22 per cent. of 950 cases of epilepsy had alcoholic parents.

THE MENACE TO THE HUMAN STOCK.

What I want to point out is that the asylums for the insane, the institutions for epileptics, idiots and feeble minded, the prisons and the county poorhouses are representative, as far as their alcoholic population is concerned, of the extremes of alcoholic indulgence and debauchery. Here alcohol has done its worst to the living individual. Below this topmost wave of ruin and desolation are innumerable gradations of alcoholism down to the moderate drinkers and the temperate or occasional drinkers.

The race is reasonably safe from further contamination by those victims of alcohol who are locked away in the retreats that our charitable world provides for them. It is otherwise with the vast number of excessive drinkers, who are free to work any havoc in the organism about us, and who are direct and indirect feeders of the institutions named. It is not a single Jukes family that society has ranged itself against, but against the legions of Jukes families that menace the human stock.

Physicians may differ among themselves on minor points, such as to whether alcohol has any nutritive value, whether it should ever be used as a stimulant in sickness, whether moderate drinking is always harmless, but the medical profession is at one in its stand against the abuse of alcohol, which leads to the wrecking of the home and race degeneracy. They all agree that alcohol is a poison taken in any form—beer, wine, hard cider, rum, whiskey, bitters or patent medicines. There is no question as to its being poison. The retort that the active principles of tea and coffee are also poisons is no argument in favor of alcohol, for while taken in excess tea and coffee do induce certain mild nervous disorders, these are insignificant when compared with the unparalleled destructiveness of drink.

The discussion as to whether alcohol is ever a food is equally idle and evasive of the main issue. It is not a food like bread and butter, for it has venom in it. As Prof. Abel of Johns Hopkins University says: "It is an easily oxidizable drug with numerous untoward effects, which inevitably appear when a certain minimum dose is exceeded."

ALCOHOL CLASSED AS A DRUG.

I have italicized the word drug because it is as a drug that alcohol is now regarded by most physicians. It is placed among the narcotics and anesthetics.

I should like here to present a very brief summary of what scientific investigators have recently determined to be the action of this drug:

It is no longer considered to be a stimulant, but rather a depressant.

It perverts digestion. It depresses and weakens the heart action.

It decreases the capacity to do muscular work.

It diminishes the intellectual functions by dulling the creative faculty, impairing judgment, vitiating the correctness of perceptions and by generating timidity.

It brings about slow, far reaching anatomical changes, such as fatty degeneration of the heart, kidney disease, diseases of the blood vessels, changes in the muscular tissue and in the cells and fibres of the nervous system.

Its habitual use lessens the normal defences of the organism against infectious diseases, especially tuberculosis.

WHO ARE ALCOHOL'S DEFENDERS?

If you find here and there some dissenting voice, that of some university professor perhaps, you may be sure that it is not that of a person with medical experience or any one familiar with the material which all may read but rather the voice of some one perversely interested. You might well question whether such a one is simply seeking sensational exploitation of himself or whether he might not even be subsidized by the vast commercial interests at stake for you must remember that the annual consumption of alcoholic drinks in the United States is over a billion gallons.

I believe that human evolution has now reached the stage when the abolition of the use of alcohol as a beverage is expected and required. Abstinence is one of the principles of the human eugenics, that new science that is just being born.

There is no one here present who would feed alcohol to his dogs, horses, sheep or cattle. These possessions are too precious for that. He is too interested in improving their breed. He would recall Prof. Hodge's experiment with alcoholized dogs, in which among twenty-three pups born in four litters to one pair of alcoholized dogs nine were born dead, eight were deformed and only four apparently normal.

Our best method of eradicating the alcoholic evil is that of a campaign of education. Every man, woman and child should be made familiar in one way or another with what is known by the medical profession of the ravages of alcohol.

In Paris they put up a poster in every public hospital ward, and on every prescription blank of their hospitals and dispensaries they print the following:

"ALCOHOLISM: ITS DANGERS."

"Alcoholism is the chronic poisoning which results from the habitual use of alcohol, even if not used to the extent of producing drunkenness."

"It is an error to say that alcohol is necessary to laborers occupied with fatiguing work, that it gives heart for work or renews their strength; the artificial excitement produced by it rapidly gives place to nervous depression and weakness. In reality alcohol has no actual use for any one."

"The habit of drinking strong liquors leads rapidly to alcoholism; but the drinks called hygienic (in France) also contain alcohol, the difference being only in the dose. The man who drinks daily an immoderate quantity of wine, cider or beer becomes alcoholic also, as well as he who drinks the stronger liquors."

"The drinks labelled as aperitive (in France), such as absinth,

Those Who Have Used Pe-ru-na Are the Only Ones Who Really Know

Many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by taking Peruna. To be beautiful, the body must be kept clean internally as well as externally. Peruna produces clean mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry, and a clear, healthy complexion.

MISS NETTIE E. BOGARDUS

Internal Catarrh.
Mrs. George C. Worstell, 11 River Road, Clarksburg, W. Va., writes: "I trust that no one will think from this that I want my name in public for any cause only to let sufferers know where they may find relief from many ailments. I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Peruna. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for internal catarrh. I have taken medicine from the doctors and found no relief; but when I began taking Peruna I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.
For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. Each tablet is equivalent to an average dose of Peruna.

Pe-ru-na Prolonged Her Life.

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 43 St. Felix Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me. "O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you have so kindly prescribed. I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less work for anyone else. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

vermouth and bitters, and the aromatic liquors are more pernicious because they contain an addition to alcohol essences which are themselves also violent poisons.

"The habit of drinking also leads to family disaffection, the forgetting of all social obligations, disgust with work, pauperism, theft and crime."

"This habit leads ultimately to the hospital, for alcoholism engenders the most various and destructive diseases—paralysis, insanity, disorders of the stomach and liver and dropsy. It is one of the most frequent causes of tuberculosis. Furthermore it complicates and aggravates acute diseases: typhoid fever, pneumonia, erysipelas when run benignly in a sober man, quickly kill the drinker."

"The faults of the parents fall upon their children. If these live beyond the first months they are menaced with idiocy, epilepsy or later fall victims to tuberculous meningitis or consumption."

"For the health of the individual, for the existence of the family, for the future of the country, alcoholism is one of the most terrible dangers."

HOW DR. PETERSON WARNS AGAINST ALCOHOL.

Even more brief, I have made them for use on my own prescription blanks, as follows:

"Alcohol is a poison."

"It is claimed by some that alcohol is a food. If so, it is a poisoned food."

"The daily regular use of alcohol, even in moderation, often leads to chronic alcoholism."

"One is poisoned less rapidly by the use of beer than by drinking wines, gin, whiskey and brandy."

"Alcoholism is one of the most common causes of insanity, epilepsy, paralysis, diseases of the liver and stomach, dropsy and tuberculosis."

"A father or mother who drinks poisons the children born to them,

My Sister Advised Me to Try Peruna.

I Took Your Treatment and My Appetite Returned Speedily. I Gained Strength and Flesh and Am in Perfect Health.

I Am So Thankful Your Medicine Has Done Me So Much Good.

—So Says Miss Julia Butler, Of Appleton, Wis.

Sick Headache.

Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, R. F. D. 22, Westfield, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now."

"I would recommend Peruna and Mannin to all sufferers. I will say, God bless Dr. Hartman and his wonderful remedies."

Weak, No Appetite.

Mrs. Ruth B. Brent, Holmes, Ill., writes:

"I was in poor health three years ago. I kept getting worse, and I finally was so weak that I could not sit up all day. My feet and hands were always cold. I had no appetite."

"I consulted one of the best doctors, who said I could not be cured. I was nervous, my heart would flutter, and I had a pain in my left side and also had chronic constipation."

"I got a bottle of Peruna and one of Mannin and wrote to you for advice. While under your treatment I gained three pounds a month."

"I took several more bottles of Peruna and now I am well. I am able to do all my housework—cooking, washing, ironing, baking and mending."

"Everybody compliments me on looking so much better than I used to, and now I have a girl baby six months old, as fat as she can be."

"She is what I call a Peruna baby, for I know if it had not been for Peruna she would not be here."

For Suffering Women.

Miss Esther Lee, 302 Madison Street, Topeka, Kas., Secretary Triple Tie Social Club, writes:

"Fourteen months ago I began to be troubled with internal catarrh, which left me pale, weak and nervous. I decided to give Peruna a trial."

"To my great relief I found that my general health improved. I kept growing stronger, and within three months I was in my usual normal condition. I was in my usual normal condition. I was in my usual normal condition."

"I would recommend Peruna to highly suffering women."
